

Reflection

Vashist Lalla

VIO has been a very humbling and challenging experience for me. It is without a doubt the hardest challenge I have willingly put myself through and I am glad I did it. VIO taught me to look at the world differently. It showed me the creative side of my brain that I rarely used due to my lack in confidence. I was never good at drawing and coming up with creative unique ideas, but the lecturers pushed me to a point where I found my “niche” in this design world. This module is the only module where I spend sleepless nights trying to perfect my work to the best of my ability. This module helped me feel more confident in my line work (especially drawing human body parts), it helped me see typography in a different way. Now every time I watch a movie, I see things differently in terms of typography. Especially when I listen to music. I imagine what the lyrics would look like kinetically constantly now. This module has helped me develop design skills that I will cherish forever. My goal for this module was to find myself creatively and I always love a great challenge. I am glad to say that I believe that I have.
